What is myOrangeMoney?¹

myOrangeMoney is designed to help you understand your financial needs during retirement. It estimates what you'll need each and every month in retirement and helps you understand how adjustments today can help you get there tomorrow.

How does it work?

After initially providing your age and current annual income, a dollar bill appears that will show your current level of retirement readiness. The dollar bill represents the estimated income you'll need each month in retirement. The portion that appears in orange represents the amount of your income that can potentially be achieved without any changes in the way that you're currently saving and investing. Anything not colored orange represents money that you'll likely need, but currently may not have. In other words, it's the gap you'll need to close to reach your retirement income goal.

Try different savings scenarios

Next to the dollar bill is a series of sliders that let you easily adjust your assumptions and then instantly see how those choices impact the level of your orange-colored monthly retirement income dollars. You can try out various investing and retirement age scenarios until you find the combination that's right for you. You can also add information about other assets to see a more complete illustration of your total retirement readiness.

Take advantage of the "Organize your $$$" link you'll find just under the dollar bill graphic. It leads to your Personal Financial Dashboard. It's an easy way to help organize your finances and make smart decisions. With it you can set goals, create budgets, track spending, review investments and more. The tool's advanced security allows you to safely link your accounts – checking, saving, credit cards, insurance and so on – so that you always have a current view of your complete financial picture.
